THE PROVIDENCE PULPIT.

Death of Hon. Stephen A. Douglas.

A SERMON

PREACHED IN THE MATHEWSON STREET METHODIST CHURCH, JUNE 9TH, 1861, BY REV SIDNEY DEAN

"Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel." II Samuel 3 38

The nation is in mourning, for a distinguished Senator has fallen with the ermine of his office wrapped around him. The suddenness of his fall, the circumstances which surrounded us and him, make his removal from us a national calamity, and cause the cloud of sorrow to pass over every true American heart.

Distinguished alike as a civilian, as a jurist, and as a leader and master of high debate, and looked upon by thousands of his fellow-countrymen as eminently fitted by his native ability, his extensive acquirements and his executive talent, for the position of Chief Magistrate of this great nation, he has, by his sudden departure from us, repeated the lesson of death's omnipotence, and taught us again that no intellect is so grand, no acquirements so extensive and varied, no position so exalted in earth, that it can be made superior to that law which controls alike the prince and the peasant, and which brings all alike at last to the dead level of clay.

This is one of the laws of earthly being. Constantly in force, the race are fulfilling its requirements every moment. The gateways of the future and unseen world are always open. For four thousand years the sentinel has stood by their passage of exit, and with the scroll in his hand which bore the angel's record of entrance, he has kept faithful record and tally, and none have escaped his vigilance.

The distinguished have passed out by the side of the most humble and unknown. The pauper without a record, or the tear of a friend to moisten his last foot-prints upon the earth shores of the cold river, and the historically great, who were attended by a nation of weepers, whose mourning was heartfelt and sincere, have gone out side by side.

The distinguished Senator from Illinois, nay, the Senator of the nation, has been among the last who have passed the portals of death's dominion, and the country is in grief because it will see him no more.

It is the province of the pulpit to deal with the great facts of life, of death and of the immortal future, with all their moral bearings.

It may not enter the partizan arena, and tithe the "mint, annise and cummin" of partizan strife for men, or for preferences of national policy, where no distinctive moral issue is set up. It may not enter upon a crusade for or against men, as such. It deals with what is higher than men—with principles of life-action, for these men leave behind them when they pass from us and their names are entered upon the muster roll of eternity. The facts of life, their great moral and eternal bearings, are so interwoven with the lives of men, that in discussing them we must, perforce, discuss men. The leading minds of the world, under an overruling Providence, make its facts. They become themselves the historic guide-marks, by which the historian writes, and by which the children of the future study the great chart of the past.

But in the discussion of national men we are to remember that it is a narrow and splenetic mind that throws to the surface the faults, foibles and weaknesses incident to humanity, and with them cover the great principles which govern a public life. The partisan ghoul who wears the surplice and occupies the desk, feeds upon the moss which earthly damps have caused to gather upon the headstone of the illustrious dead, and forgets to read the record so plainly engraved, which speaks of a noble patriotism, and an ambition which has its conception and ending, its Alpha and Omega, in love of country.

When a mind of vast proportions, of giant strength, of fixed principles, whose career has been marked, and whose influence has been world wide, swerves from its orbit and leaves only darkness and sorrow behind it, then the pulpit should gather up the causes and consequences of such a calamity to the nation and the world, and though it might not be able to separate the man from his actions and their influences upon the world, yet it should deal justly and openly, for the honor of the Divine law, and for the sake of the race. But if such a mind, in the sweep of its own orbit, steadily pursues its way, throwing its light upon the nation and the world, dies out from among us at a higher call than ours, then let the pulpit rise above the fog and mists, and even weaknesses, of the humanity in which such a mind was "cribbed, cabined and confined," and deal with the great landmarks by which it was guided. If they were essentially infidel, atheistic, and tended to anarchy,—if they were tyrannical, despotic and destructive of the rights of man,—if they tended to smite down a single inalienable right of man's heavenly endowment, then the pulpit would be recreant to its trust did it not array itself upon the side of God, of justice, of law and order,—nay, if it did not interpose itself between a usurped principle, or power, and the humblest child of the race who was to be crushed or bruised by them. The cross of the Nazarene in the pulpit is its symbol of the equality of the race before the laws and the throne of grace open for all, and that throne of judgment before whom all are equally to stand, to be judged by the wisdom of Omnipotence at last.

If the guiding principles of such a national mind were essentially Christian, and tended to the advancement of the race, in pure morals, in equal rights, in liberty, in constitutional order,—if they were based upon the broad platform of a Christian patriotism, then it is the province of the pulpit to lift them to the measurements of the Cross, even though they lift the humanity with them, and by their exalted position make the petty defects of the departed patriot more apparent to a gazing world.

Thus, much, my brethren, upon the duties of the pulpit, in its relation to the great minds, who sweep across the plane of life, and whose sepulchres are builded by the engraved tablets of the historian.

I come not then to speak of the great deceased as a partizan, or to press upon your attention any weakness or defects of his earthly character or career. He was a man. And in that comprehensive word, how much is embodied! Of all the myriads who have composed the race from the gates of Eden, to the child that is now uttering its first feeble wail of life, but one exception to imperfection and weakness can be found. And He was and is illustrious, because He was God incarnated. By human birthright our brother of the Adamic race; but by spirit, powers and being, "God blessed forever." The rest of the brotherhood, without an exception, have been written as men, weak, human, fallible men.

But men, and fallen men, even, may be great. And whether measured by the past, with its array of noble intellects, who have helped to mould the destiny of the world into its present shape, or whether measured by the standard of the present, which lifts to the national pedestal the guiding minds which direct our affairs in this our hour of peril, we can say truly of the illustrious deceased, "A prince and a great man has fallen this day in our national Israel."

True greatness when applied to the civilian is not an accident of birth, or a result of a single cause. The accident of birth often causes the smallest intellects and the meanest natures to disgrace a throne; and too often crowds those of vast mental endowments into obscurity to wither and die. In our emblematic mace with its bundle of rods bound together as one great rod of power, may be found the type of true greatness in the American civilian.

We propose at this time to examine and discuss

THE ELEMENTS OF GREATNESS FOUND IN THE CHRISTIAN CIVILIAN.

We use the term Christian in a national sense, and not in a personal or experimental one.

The first element of greatness in the civilian, is to be found in his natural endowments.

It is impossible to set aside the great fact made patent by every generation of our race, that men, to occupy leading positions among their fellows, and to fill them successfully, must be endowed by nature with a power commensurate with the position they attain and occupy. True it is, that even these great gifts of nature are varied in the channels through which they manifest themselves. Nature was lavish in her gifts in Alexander and Napoleon the First, and they were men of military genius whose armies shook the world, and changed the face of its kingdoms. Alike lavish in Bacon and Newton, and behold the prince of philosophers and astronomers. Prodigality in her bounties gave to the world the eminent jurists, Blackstone, Story and Marshall. And still, in other channels, the world has acknowledged those great endowments which have shed lustre upon the race, as they have guided the parliamentary debate, or the advancing armies of their countrymen; in Bozzaris and Kosciusko, in Kossuth and Garibaldi, in Pitt, Channing and Wilberforce, in the sages of Quincy, Marshfield and Ashland, or in our great prince of the race, Washington.

They, and numberless others whom we might mention, whose names are immortal, and received their capacity to fill their stations at the hand of Him who alone can confer such favors. They were gifts communicated through the channels of nature, and were essential to the success of the fabric of character and influence which their possessors reared.

"Who were not born to die,"

The race of truly great men has never died out of any one generation since the day when the cross was planted. And reasoning from the past, and from the necessities of the world, and from the wisdom and power of the world's Creator and Governor, we may safely assert that it never will.

Misanthropical spirits, blinded partisans, or antiquated fogies, who, like the mummies of Thebes, are wrapped in the rotten cerements of the past, or who with owls' eyes are blinded to the light of the present and the rising sun of the world's future, will not acknowledge the Creator's stamp of greatness upon anything living. But they are not proper judges. When we shall have passed off the stage, and our graves shall feel the tramp of the millions who shall succeed us, then the student of history will weave a garland, will gather a perfect constellation, of men made truly great by the endowment of nature, out of this generation, and the illustrious Senator from Illinois will be among them.

No man, be he his friend or foe, can be just or truthful and deny the capacity and tremendous brain power with which nature endowed him. He had it. If he used it well, or ill, he has passed to a tribunal competent to decide, and impartial in its judgments.

In the year 1857, while in political life, and associated with him in a legislative capacity, and in direct antagonism with the partizan principles of which he was in a great measure the author and defender, I had occasion to write for the public a description of the man, embracing his physical and mental endowments. Since his death, I have re-read the article, and lest you might accuse me of detracting from the gifts of the living, and laudating the same when sealed with the signet of death, I quote thus much:

"This completes the physical picture of the 'Little Giant,' if we except the broad, lofty, Websterian brow, and the deep-set, cavernous eyes, that sparkle and glow when excited, like miners' lamps, beneath it. It is the tremendous brain power lodged in that perpendicular precipice of a forehead, and shooting out its fires from its shadowed eyes, that has given him the soubriquet which he will carry to his grave. When excited and in full flow of debate, that massive head rolls and shakes with the emphasis of his thought, and the huge hand doubles until the belligerent fist, or the broad, open palm receives the blows of its mate, and italicises the sentence with a stunning report. The sweat pours from him profusely, and falls from his forehead, or is thrown clear of his shoulders by those ... shakes of the head, as the rain-drops are shaken from the trees in a storm," &c., &c.

This was the man whose power as a debater has hardly been equalled in this country, and concerning whose power and abilities, living or dying, I have no wish to change the record I then made.

But natural endowments alone do not make great men. Great minds may lie dormant and buried in rust or the rubbish of an every day, passing life; and we pass, to notice the second element of greatness in the civilian.

2d. The use and cultivation of nature's gifts.

The use of our faculties is in a great measure contingent upon the disposition and the will. And both the disposition and the will are strengthened by use. The gifts of nature do not annihilate the law of use to make those gifts successful. The scholar is not at the head of his profession because nature gave him the power to perceive, to grasp, and to remember what his mind gathers. It is the surmounting of obstacles, the steady, persistent pursuit of the end, it is the lofty courage which has sublimity in it, the tireless energy which has nothing laggard or effeminate in its composition, it is the indomitable will-energy which pushes a man up to crown the pedestal of greatness as a civilian.

Of what use is magnetism or electricity, if it is vague and shadowy,—a mere accident or law of nature, with no power or purpose but to run its wild career, venting itself in occasional thunder bolts of terror! Ascertain its laws and bring it to a use under them, and how great, how grand, how awful a power is unfolded and felt!

How insignificant is the light vapor which floats away like a cloud riding upon its airy chariot! And yet confine it,—study its laws of expansion and force, and it becomes your steed to move you from point to point with a rapidity almost terrific, and to send out, as it flies, its loud scream, as if it was uttering the last dying wail of the great past.

Who knows the forces gathered in a drop of water, the gift of Him who created mind, until by use, its law is discovered, and it becomes a great power, subject to the bidding of man!

Nature's gifts are subject to law, and notwithstanding she may be lavish and even prodigal in them, ... they carry the law with them. ... to be truly great, a leader of others, and a very prince of civilians, requires obedience to the law which comes with the endowment. The law is use. The instruments of successful use are courage, energy, and an indomitable will.

And it is the use of these powers in the direction where success is sought. It is true, that the truly great civilian must have his mind balanced by a general knowledge of all subjects incidental even to his position and work. The general knowledge of all other subjects within the scope of our information tends toward the focus of our specialty, and strengthens us in its pursuit.

Many things are essential to success and true greatness in civil life, which may be denominated as minor necessities. They, however, yield to the forces of which we have spoken. As for instance, to shine in the legislative forum requires readiness in the utterance of our thoughts; but who will say that even the physical defect of a stuttering tongue is not subject to the law of use, dictated by a lofty courage, energy and indomitable will, just so long as Demosthenes, the orator of Greece, stands on the canvas of history, by the sea shore, declaiming above the roar of its surges, with his mouth full of the pebbles taken from its beach?

The true history of the Hon Stephen A. Douglas in this particular is yet to be written. It is sufficient for all the purposes of illustrating this part of our subject to say, that he was born in the State of Vermont, of poor parents; that he entered the political arena poor and unfriended. At twenty years of age he was on the fields of the broad West, with a seeming intuition of its coming greatness and importance as a location. At twenty-one he was admitted to the bar, and in one short year from his admission to practice, he was placed at the head of his profession in his District. At twenty-three he became, by the suffrages of his fellow citizens who knew him, a legislator, at twenty-seven, Secretary of State; at twenty-eight he put on the ermine, as Judge of the Supreme Court of his adopted State. At thirty years of age he entered the halls of national legislation in the lower House, and two years later was elected to the Senate of the United States, and died with his official robes about him.

But into that brief forty eight years of life, how much of toil, of courage, of energy and indomitable will was crowded! The poor, unfriended boy, cradled among the green hills of Vermont, in twenty short years had risen to the leadership of his party, and was its prominent candidate for the highest office in the gift of the world; and that twenty years all spent in performing the duties which his varied offices required at his hands.

This leads me to speak of still another element of greatness in the character of a civilian.

3d. Success in carrying his plans into action.

Defeat of studied and cherished plans is as disastrous to greatness in a civilian, as a lost battle is to the greatness of a military hero. It is the record of results, and the success of measures incubated and brought into the field, which live upon the pages of the historian, and stamp the greatness of the leader upon the minds of future generations.

The old hero who now controls the military movements of our government against the assassins who seek to overthrow it, is acknowledged by the world as the greatest of military heroes and Generals. His star is not dimmed by the brightness of the English Iron Duke,—the great Wellington, or that of the Hero of Austerlitz and Marengo,—the dead idol of France. And why? Because, with nature's endowments, and with powers cultivated and fully developed by use, is to be found a third fact more important than all to the historian—for by that he judges of nature's gifts and their use—he never lost a battle. The woven chaplet adorns the brow of the successful. The popular heart acknowledges greatness in the successful leader, with loud huzzas.

It is true there may be misgivings concerning the result of that success upon the party or the nation, but it acknowledges the seal, and renders its verdict of greatness upon the mind which dictated, and the voice which was heard in the lead.

The youthful lawyer, Judge and Senator, was eminently successful in all, save his last contest with traitors who were seeking the overthrow of the country. Treason met him and found him a foe. In the commencement of the strife the legacy of his life slipped away from him, and death, always successful, sealed his earthly career.

Many a true heart in this country fought, and prayed, and labored against the success of his measures, believing them freighted with death to the best interests of this country and our race—and I confess myself among the number—but they all acknowledged the stamp and seal of his endowment. It has required a charity almost Divine to forgive that assault upon the teachings of Jesus and the rights of conscience found in the Fugitive Slave Bill and some other acts which he framed and generaled into law. No ordinary man could have done it.

4th. The fourth and last element of greatness in a Christian civilian, which we notice at this time, is a high-toned patriotism.

A man may possess endowments of a high order, may have cultivated and used them up to their highest unfolding, may have been successful in his efforts, or in those channels which he has marked out for his followers, but if he have a traitor's heart and a traitor purpose against his country, he strips himself at once from that balance wheel of the true Christian civilian, and becomes an outlaw and pirate in the judgment of the world. Men everywhere freely forgive mistakes, even though those mistakes result in disasters to their country, but God has so constituted the human heart that it has but one pulsebeat for traitors and enemies of country and countrymen. One common impulse of the people sends them into the kennel of infamy, and the historian gibbets them for the gaze of future generations. The abilities of Benedict Arnold were of a high order, his courage undaunted, his zeal untiring, and his earlier actions brave and true; but he lacked the deep patriot's love for his young country and his struggling countrymen, and all his former glory is covered by the one black spot of his weakness and infamy. There are others now moving in this tragedy of rebellion who have sunk to his level, and who will never see a redemption to their former greatness while the world stands and history is read.

The judgment of the world makes heroes of men, who, born of the people, are with the people, and seek their interests and good against all usurping powers. Europe has her catalogue of illustrious great men, whose patriotism even in defeat has stamped them with the seal of greatness. It is the attaining, or even the striving to attain, the noble end of freedom for our country, and to pour its blessing upon the poorest, that the old poet describes as the true greatness, when he says,

> "Who noble ends by noble means attains,
> Or failing, smiles in exile or in chains,
> Like good Aurelius let him reign, or bleed
> Like Socrates, that man is great indeed."

Senator Douglas was a true patriot, if the actions of his life and the last words of his lips are true indexes of his heart. Ambitious he was,—and without that his massive powers would have mouldered with the bricks in his office. As we have already intimated, the judgment of the best philanthropists and statesmen of our country trembled for the success of his measures, looking, as he said, to the unity and peace of the country, rent and quivering under a struggle for the supremacy of the antagonistical principles of freedom and slavery, but no man will arise to accuse the dead Douglas of the infamy of heart treason against his country, as no man could have done it with safety while he lived.

What assurances had been made him indirectly by these spirits now in revolt, what pledges for the future if he would turn his back upon the liberties of his country, and inaugurate or aid in the inauguration of this new Confederation, based upon the abnegation of all the rights of four millions of people, and the consequent destruction of all true liberty among the great toiling masses of freemen, we have no positive knowledge.

The distinguished Senator was not an Anti-Slavery man, or a humanitarian, as we use the term. He was not to our knowledge personally a religious man, but he had a patriot's love of country. He moved upon the great Christian plane of government, and supported by his oath and votes the Christian liberties of this country, as he understood them to be bequeathed us by our Christian fathers. The record of his life tallies with such portions of his last speech, as bears upon this point, a speech delivered with such feeling as to awaken the wildest enthusiasm among those who knew and loved him.

The legacy which he left to his two orphan sons in his dying moments, speaks the patriotism of his heart. When asked by Mrs. Douglas what message he desired to leave for the absent boys—"Tell them," said he, and death was even then opening the doors for the exit of his spirit,—"tell them to obey the laws and support the Constitution of the United States."

Thus has passed away the Statesman in the flower of his life and the full vigor of his years. He takes his rank among the great dead of this country, and his memory will be fresh among the illustrious Senators who preceded him in their departure from those halls of high debate. We can ill spare him, with his wide spread influence and stirring eloquence, in this hour of peril to our Union. But the sovereign Ruler of our country and the world knows best; and we bow to the sudden stroke which has hung the country with crape, with the sublime faith that Infinite wisdom makes no mistakes, and that He superintends his cause in the world, guiding national destinies, and watching alike the fall of the Statesman and the sparrow.

I would that I could now add to this catalogue of elements, a heart controlled by God's grace,—for this is the crowning glory of all true greatness, in every department of life. God's love permeating the whole man, and all his actions, puts the seal of goodness upon greatness. This is the eternal life savor of power, and survives the grave. The marriage of greatness with goodness is the true balance of the civilian.

I would that, in honesty, I could thus crown the illustrious deceased. Oh, if such a heart had been laid at the feet of the Master, and been anointed with a heavenly power, how that massive brain and tremendous mental enginery would have moved the world upward in the path of Christian civilization, strengthening the cause of God, and establishing the rights of man under it!

The lesson we are to learn from this national bereavement, to me appears plain.

As a nation, our enthusiasm and love for our leaders approximates idolatry. The tendency of men, forgetting ... who founded us, and whose laws and mercy alone can preserve us still as one people,—a Christian nation, in experience, as well as in name.

It is best that our idols be shattered, and our leaders fall into the nation's sepulchre, rather than that infidelity and practical idolatry should plunge our nation into severer judgments, and possibly into its own tomb.

But still we must say as David said to his people, "Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?"

Mistaken Lenity.

It seems that Maj. Wm. H. Emory, of the First Cavalry, who resigned a few weeks ago, and subsequently desired to withdraw his resignation has been allowed to do so. Maj. Emory is a Marylander, whom the secession crisis found stationed at a far Western post (New Mexico, we think,) and he was therefore unable to time his course in the matter with that precision and judgment which his presence nearer Washington might have enabled him to exercise. Aware that trouble was brewing, and ignorant of the shape that events might take, he left his resignation with a friend or friends, with liberty to tender it at their discretion. It was handed in when the secession of Maryland was thought by those friends to be inevitable. But she did not secede. The Federal Government soon got the "upper hand" in that State, as we all know. So Major Emory wanted his resignation to go for nothing and has been accommodated upon making professions of present loyalty.

There are several reasons why the policy which the government has pursued in this case is extremely objectionable. We will specify but three of them. The first, most palpable and most important, is the constructive treason that Maj. Emory manifested, which renders him unworthy and unfit to hold a command in the United States army at all, and especially when the enemies to be encountered are traitors. If Maryland had seceded, then Major Emory's treason would have become overt. For aught that we can know, he would soon have been seen at the head of a rebel troop; but such a position was not needed to constitute him a disloyalist, so long as he acted upon the principle that the secession of his State imposed on him a duty superior to that which every citizen owes to the nation at large.

Fancy the Major leading his men against those between whom and himself the chief difference is that it was their State and not his that has seceded; whereas if the fact had been just the contrary, his rule would have had an application which reverses the attitude of the parties on the great issue for which the war is being fought. The idea shows "the effect of circumstances" too forcibly to require comment. "Circumstances over which"—as the phrase is—"he had no control," have altogether too much to do with the loyalty of this man, for him to figure well as an United States officer in these times.

Again, the resignation of any military or naval officer at the very moment when his government needs his services more than at any time for years, is prima facie a discreditable act, which can but rarely be excused. If his connection with the service is but recent, the case is bad enough; but when, as in the case of Major Emory, he has long fed at the public crib, he deserves the severest reprehension rather than favor, when he leaves the government in the lurch. Surely the last few months have taught this truth pretty plainly.

Thirdly, the influence of such misplaced lenity as has been exhibited towards this Emory, must be extremely injurious upon the faithful subofficers who see a contingent traitor kept over their heads; to say nothing of the weakened morale of his equals in rank, consequent upon this lowering of the standard of military honor. We do not question his professional ability; but the more there is of it the more culpable is he, and the more necessary is it that his offence should be made to furnish a salutary and not an evil example.

A Poet Among the Soldiers.—N. P. Willis, who has been visiting the city of "magnificent" encampments, thus writes to the Home Journal concerning—

VESPER SERVICE AMONG THE RHODE ISLANDERS.

Washington is all one stirring drama; but the "thing to see," among the daily sights, is the evening parade and vespers of the Rhode Island Regiment. My friend Lieutenant Wise drove me to the spot, amid one of the most beautiful of sunsets, and we found a large representation of the society of the capital already on the ground—the band playing and the men under review by their Colonel.

The locality of the encampment—(Eckington, the country-seat of the late Joseph Gales)—will be remembered by many as the scene of never ending hospitalities. The house stands just as in the life-time of the eminent and beloved man whose home it was, (Mrs Gales still resident there,) and the barracks of the regiment are just visible through the trees across the lawn. A lap of green meadow lying in the lap of a curved ridge, beyond the grove, forms the parade; and this, as the spectator looks down upon it from the terrace above, is the foreground of a landscape in itself absolutely delicious; but the regiment with their Kossuth hats, and glittering arms, and with the quiet tone of their uniforms, completes the picture with wonderful effect. The poetic part of its prayer. The grounding of arms, the sudden stillness of the drums, the stepping forward of the chaplain, and the well-chosen words of the invocation and blessing, left scarce a dry eye among the spectators; and how salutary and elevating must be such influences to the soldiers themselves, needs but little skill for the divining.

I can scarcely imagine a righteous battle better prepared for, than by the closing hymn that was sung after the prayer, accompanied with the music of the military band. The voices of the men swelled up like the trained tumult of an advancing host, through an atmosphere that was all aglow with the red and gold of a magnificent sunset, and the smoke of the camp fires among the trees seemed to pause and tremble with the reverberation—the whole scene appearing like a sublime service that had been consecrated by the sudden kindling of earth and sky with an "unveiling of the shekinah." The Rhode Island Regiment should be congratulated, too, I think, on the chance that has given them a leader who looks fully up to it—Col. Burnside's uncovering of his head for the benediction, as he stands before them, being such a show of intellectual pre-eminence (phrenologically and physiognomically speaking) as may well invest it with an authority like that of a sacred altar that is to be borne before them to victory.

Wesleyan University. The Commencement at Wesleyan University, in Middletown, Ct., occurred on Thursday of this week. Twenty-seven young men received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, three of whom accompanied the last Connecticut regiment to the seat of war. Both the young men who were to deliver the salutatory and valedictory addresses had enlisted, and their places were unsupplied. Ten of the students have left their studies to defend the flag of their country.

John H. Fowler, LL.D., of Poughkeepsie, addressed the literary Societies upon "The Versatility of American Oratory," illustrating his theme by admirable sketches of Patrick Henry and Otis, of earlier days, and Clay and Webster, of later times.

Rev. N. J. Burton, of Hartford, addressed the Alumni upon the "Vital and Mechanical Mind."

The University conferred the honorary degree of A. M. upon Rev. Wm. M. Punshon, the eloquent orator of England; Alexander S. Reid, Principal of St. John's Wesleyan Academy, Newfoundland; and Rev. George W. Woodruff, of Middletown, Conn. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred on Rev. Samuel D. Waddy, of England; Rev. Wm. Griffin, of Albany; and Prof. John Newman, of Union College.

Anson Burlingame, whom Austria would not receive as Minister from the United States, has been appointed Minister to China. As the Chinese know nothing about him, he will probably be accepted! He is a politician with small claims to statesmanship.—Woonsocket Patriot.

Say you so? That is exactly our own opinion, but we did not know that the Patriot shared it. It seems that Austria gave Burlingame the cold shoulder because he espoused the side of Sardinia so strongly a year or two ago. It is not strange that despotic Austria should show her dislike for the best thing that we ever knew him to do.

Letter from the First Regiment.

The following diary of the march from Greencastle to Washington is from the private letter of an officer in Capt. W. W. Brown's Company, 1st Regiment, dated at Camp Sprague, Washington, Wednesday, June 19th, 12 o'clock, M. He says:

On Thursday, the 13th instant, a Pennsylvania regiment passed us at Greencastle, and we saw in their ranks a spy, whom we had arrested while we were at the Patent Office. We took him from them and sent him to Gen. Patterson.

On the next day we received orders at the dress parade in the evening, to pack up our baggage and be in readiness to march at six o'clock on the following morning. We accordingly rose at four A. M., on Saturday, struck our tents at half-past six, and took up our line of march for Williamsport, fifteen miles distant, at twenty minutes past eight. Here we arrived at twenty minutes past one, having outstripped the regulars, who felt rather chagrined at our arriving three hours before them.

On Monday, the 17th instant, we left Camp at half-past seven for Hagerstown, having received orders to that effect from General Patterson, who commanded the Brigade to which we belonged. On arriving at that place, Colonel Burnside had handed him a despatch from General Scott, directing him to proceed at once to Washington and be there on Tuesday night. That detached us from Gen. Patterson's Brigade. We accordingly proceeded on to Frederick City, twenty six miles further. About two miles from Hagerstown we saw several Pennsylvania Regiments on the road. We stopped at Boonsborough at a quarter to four o'clock, P. M., and halted till half past six. The remaining six miles march was over the Blue Ridges which are ten miles apart, with the town of Middletown between them. About three miles from Boonsborough I was so foot-sore, that I was obliged to be helped to a seat on one of the caissons of the Light Battery. I walked up the hills, however, for the horses were very tired. Two sections of the Battery had come six miles farther than we had, having been ordered over into Virginia to help some Pennsylvania troops in case they were attacked. Gov. Sprague went over the next day and brought them back, but the Pennsylvanians cried piteously when they left them.

Within a mile and a half of Frederick City we made a halt and a despatch was handed to the Colonel. The purport of this was, as we afterwards learned, that we should march directly back to Hagerstown. The Colonel telegraphed back that his men and horses were completely exhausted, and proceeded on towards Frederick City. At twenty minutes past twelve, after a march of thirty-three miles in seventeen hours, during which we halted four hours, we made a final stop for the night, and were ordered to build fires and get our blankets. Being too tired to do that, and seeing a quantity of straw in a barn yard, I laid down and was asleep in less than two minutes. At five o'clock on Tuesday morning (the 18th instant) we started for Frederick City, and on our arrival went to the barracks on the show ground. These are of brick, painted white. They were built before the Revolution, but are in very good order, having just been cleaned and made ready for occupancy.

Frederick City is a strong Union place with a population of 8,000 or 9,000, of whom some 200 only are secessionists. We marched through the streets in open order and were received with an unlimited amount of applause. We were the first Union troops the people had seen, and they were greatly pleased with us. Col. Burnside fulfilled his promise of getting us all a hot breakfast, which we had at nine o'clock. Company C took theirs at the same hotel where Gov. Hicks was stopping during the session of the Legislature. It was a great treat to sit once more beneath a white table cloth. We had had nothing to eat which we could relish for the forty-eight hours preceding, and we had nothing more but a dry crust of bread until we arrived in Washington.

Having received another telegram from Gen. Scott, to come at once to Washington, we commenced getting ready, and Company A was ordered to pack the baggage wagons. This they accomplished in six hours, and at half-past seven we got into the cars for our home at Camp Sprague, eighty miles distant. At eight o'clock this (Wednesday) morning, we were welcomed back with three cheers for each [illegible] in arms who remained at Washington, under command of Lieutenant Walker. Colonel Burnside says that our men stood the march better than the regiment which he was with while in Mexico; for at the end of one forced march of thirty seven miles, only four men out of that regiment were present when the roll was called.

We took four secession flags during our four days journey. The first was taken at Boonesville, by private Frank Thomas, of Company D. Two others were taken by members of the Marine Artillery, and the fourth by Capt. Frank Goddard, of the Sharpshooters. We also heard of one at the office of the Herald, a strong secession paper, at Frederick City. Gunmen, having been justly irritated by the taunts of the secessionists who gathered about this place, threatened to commit violence upon the office, when Col. Burnside came up and ordered us to camp, at the same time telling the crowd that he would not be responsible for what his men should do unless they ceased their offensive remarks. We gave the Colonel nine cheers, and went back to our quarters. O.

The Slaves Wide Awake.—An Important Statement from Colonel Forney.—Colonel Forney writes from Washington to the Philadelphia Press of Friday:

"I am not of those who desire to see property of our Southern people interfered with. I would unutterably deplore the horrors of a servile insurrection. But, as a faithful historian of the times, it is well that I should say that those who have taken the full responsibility of resisting the federal authority, and of proscribing all who are found in defence of the American flag, should appreciate the dangers that are rapidly surrounding them, so that when the tempest is let loose they may not prove to be wholly unprepared. Is it possible that a war which starts out with a declaration against free principles, which denounces the people of the free States as ignorant, vulgar, brutal and inferior, and which, through its numerous agencies, does not hesitate to anticipate the establishment of a monarchy, shall not awaken all those slumbering aspirations in the breast of the colored race for freedom, which Southern statesmen have really always secretly feared? May not, in other words, this race be compelled to take some steps of precaution for their own protection, when they see the war that is waged without mercy upon the whites?

A gentleman just returned from Virginia—in fact, one who has been expelled from that State because of his Northern birth, informed me that it was interesting to notice the assumed ignorance and indifference of the slaves while in presence of their masters, and that the moment they believed themselves safe and near a Northern man, or one whom they could trust, they brightened into intelligence, and spoke of passing events with wonderful accuracy and feeling. He told me that he had several copies of Northern newspapers in his room, and that frequently the servants would steal up to him and beg permission to read for their own information, greedily devouring every fact and opinion, and then going forth to spread among their fellows that which they had acquired. All these considerations enter largely into the present and the future of our country. We cannot ignore them if we would. What is to become of this race—whether it is to be colonized or returned to Africa—are questions which lie far beyond. We have to do simply with what is now transpiring—not, indeed, what we wish to happen, but what we shall be fully prepared for."

A Rebel Dry Dock Deserts to Fort Pickens.—Extract from a letter of an officer at Fort Pickens:

"The wooden dry dock at Pensacola, which was intended by General Bragg to be sunk, to obstruct the entrance of vessels into this harbor, got adrift from its moorings a few days since, and was observed slowly approaching this fortress. Apprehending that the valiant Bragg might have converted this dry dock into some great explosive engine to blow us all up, Col. Brown had all his men at their guns to repel the monster. On its nearer approach it was found harmless, and is now safely secured under the guns of the fort."

Baker, the captain of the privateer "Savannah," says he was perfectly well aware that he ran the risk of being hanged when he went after Northern vessels, "but then," said he to Midshipman McCook, "as sure as that occurred, Jeff Davis would string up every Northern man he could lay hands upon."

THE WAR.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis, June 21.—The Democrat has a special despatch from Syracuse, 25 miles south of Boonville, which says that an expedition, nearly 1000 strong, with four field pieces, with Capt. Totten of the regulars, left Boonville last Tuesday night, and reached that place at 10 yesterday morning.

Gov. Jackson, with 500 men, arrived there Tuesday. After impressing the property of both enemies and friends, being afraid of pursuit, he suddenly left yesterday morning, proceeding southward towards Warsaw.

Our forces went forward to-day, but there is little hope of overtaking the fleeing party.

A battle took place at sunrise, on Tuesday, between 800 Union Guards, Capt. Cook, near the town of Cole, and a large party of secessionists from Warsaw and the surrounding country, in which 16 of the Guards were killed and 20 wounded, many severely. Thirty prisoners were taken. Most of the Guards were in a large barn when the firing commenced, but instantly sprung to their arms. It is said they killed 40 of the attacking party. Being overpowered by superior numbers, nearly all finally escaped, and are now ready to join our forces to dispute the passage of the State troops.

Capt. Cole has hastened forward to overtake and counsel with Capt. Totten.

Some of Jackson's party went from here on Wednesday night over the railroad, taking what rolling stock they could and destroying the balance, and burning the Lamine bridge, six miles west of here.

Syracuse is now protected by the federal forces.

Among several letters captured in Boonville by Gen. Lyon are some embracing orders from headquarters to destroy the bridges on the North Missouri, Hannibal, St. Joseph and Pacific railroad, and instructions to different officers and individuals respecting the organization of troops, &c., and also one enumerating the arms, munitions, &c., seized at the Liberty Arsenal a few days since.

The list is as follows: 8 brass and 12 iron 6 pounders, 166 balls, 280 pounds canister, 63 strap shot, 880 fixed round shot, 180 muskets, 431 rifles, 121 carbines, 811 pistols, 469 sabres, 89 artillery swords, 4000 pounds of musket powder, 15 000 musket cartridges, 9000 musketoon cartridges, 1750 rifle cartridges, 58 000 pistol cartridges, and 10,000 blank cartridges.

A letter from Jefferson City, the capital of Missouri, dated June 18, published in the St. Louis Republican, says:—

"Lest there should be any misapprehension among the people in regard to the condition of the State government, I will state the following facts:—All the departments of the State government have been sealed or are about to be sealed. The Auditor's clerk will proceed to post the books of his department without molestation. The Treasurer has in the presence of several prominent citizens and the commander of the place, deposited all his books, papers, &c., in the safe, locked and sealed it and then surrendered it to the custody of Colonel Boernstein, taking the keys and seal with him. This was done with a view to avert all suspicion that the United States troops had unduly interfered with the State government.

"Mr. Morrison, State Treasurer, was arrested at Hermann and brought to this city as a prisoner. No money was found upon him, and he was released after the arrangement above referred to had been consummated. Capt. Jefferson T. Rogers, Paymaster of the Southwest Expedition, was also arrested, his trunk was searched and found to contain about $16 000 in drafts and checks of the State. On being asked what he proposed to do with the money, he said it was intended for the payment of the Southwest Expedition. It was then proposed that some one be chosen who should see that the money was applied for that purpose and none other. Both parties agreed upon the Hon. Thomas L. Price. Mr. Price's consent was obtained, and he took all the papers, drafts, &c., of Captain Rogers, who will proceed to distribute the ready money, under the act of the legislature, for the paying of the Southwest Expedition, in company with Mr. Price. Captain Rogers was thereupon released."

FROM THE UPPER POTOMAC BORDER.

The Baltimore American's correspondent at Williamsport says that reliable information has been received that a rebel force of 11 000 from Harper's Ferry, with 4000 impressed men, are encamped at Stephenson Depot, four miles this side of Winchester. In Berkeley county, 700 men comprise the entire force, about 400 of whom are encamped four miles south of Martinsburg. Seventy cavalry and 60 infantry are at Bunker's Hill, and others are between that point and the Potomac.

Gen. Cadwallader is still at Williamsport with 6000 men. The rebel pickets are on the opposite side of the river and threaten to bombard the town. Two 32 pounders and an eight inch howitzer were planted by Cadwallader on the hill between the town and the river last night. A body of regular cavalry joined Cadwallader Thursday. The movements of the troops are unknown, but they are anxious to fight.

A note from the correspondent of the Associated Press at Hagerstown says neither Col. Bowman or the private of the 8th Pennsylvania regiment, who were taken prisoners opposite Williamsport Wednesday, have been heard from. The soldiers are greatly excited [illegible] Patterson's command in a day or two.

A despatch from Harper's Ferry to Washington states and confirms the report that 800 rebel troops arrived at the Ferry yesterday and completed the work of destruction, burnt the rifle factory and Shenandoah bridge, and ran a first class locomotive off an abutment into the river. They said they were instructed to blow up every house in town on which there was a Union flag. They then commenced to arrest all Union men, and about fifty were pursued into the river, who swam to the Maryland shore, but were fired at in the water. No harm was done. The rebels took off about 50,000 gun stocks from the rifle factory.

The Star has a despatch from Bedford, Pennsylvania, announcing the arrival of a messenger from Cumberland from Wallace. He reports that Wallace had started his baggage towards Bedford and entrenched himself on the North side of the town awaiting the approach of the rebel forces from Romney. They hearing that he was prepared to receive them, returned to Romney. He has sent to Gen. Patterson for aid to drive them from Romney, and two regiments have been sent to join him.

A special despatch to the New York Herald from Harrisburg says news has been received that Col. Wallace's command is hemmed in by a large rebel force of over 10 000 men. Col. Biddle's Rifles and Col. Simmons' Infantry were immediately armed, equipped and furnished with four day's rations, and left to-night for there.

VARIOUS WASHINGTON REPORTS—21st.

The Washington Star says Gen. McDowell has advanced his lines four miles towards Fairfax, and the rebel flag can be seen two miles from the camp.

The Adjutant General has issued an order that the captains and first lieutenants of the old army regiments, who have appointments to the same grades in the new regiments, are considered to have been transferred, and will accordingly be mustered into their new regiments, and will bear the same rank as ordinarily held by them.

Five regiments this side of the Potomac are under orders to march at a moment's notice.

H. B. Tyler, Lieutenant of the Marine corps, recently arrested in New York for the expression of "contraband" sentiments, has been dismissed from the service.

A special despatch to the New York Evening Post, of last evening, says:

This morning the rebels were concentrating a large force at Fairfax Court House. Every movement indicates an attack on our lines within a short time.

It is believed that Beauregard can concentrate sixty thousand troops at any given point within a week. Undoubtedly he has large forces at command, and it is not improbable that he will be forced to make a speedy advance movement.

One of Lieut. Tompkins' cavalry force, who has just arrived here from Fall's Church, reports that everything is quiet in that direction.

Advices have been received from the camp of the Connecticut troops near Vienna, Virginia, up to noon to-day. No new movements had taken place.

Our troops in occupation of Vienna are fully prepared for any attack. Their artillery is all unlimbered, ready for instant use.

A strict examination of the causes of the lamentable affair at Vienna has resulted in the exculpation of the engineer of the train which took up the Ohio troops. The responsibility of the blunder which resulted so disastrously for our troops, rests entirely upon Gen. Schenck.

There is trouble in the New York Twenty-eighth regiment, and the officers talk of disbanding it.

The special Washington despatches to last evening's Commercial Advertiser say:—

During last night, a party of nineteen secessionists attempted to blow up the Long Bridge with several bags of gunpowder. The enterprise of these rascals was detected, and they were fired upon while in their boat. Two of them were killed and the rest were taken prisoners.

A scout sent out by Lieut. Tompkins has just returned and reports that a large force of rebels is gathering at Fairfax. A lady, who reached the federal lines this morning, with a pass, also reports that the rebels are flocking into the neighborhood of Fairfax. And she also asserts positively that she saw Beauregard in that town. The prospect of a battle becomes, therefore, greater every hour. Still there is no unusual excitement here; the preparations to successfully cope with the enemy are rapidly going on, and even if our troops were attacked to-night, they are well prepared for resistance. One thing is certain, that is, that Washington cannot be taken now.

Officers of the army, with whom I have conversed this morning, give it as their opinion that unless a collision occurs before to-morrow evening, there is little chance of any taking place at any time.

The War Department is very reticent on all subjects relating to the movements of troops, and will not allow correspondents to communicate all intelligence of which they may become possessed. There is a confirmed conviction in the minds of all those who have kept a sharp lookout that the rebels are outflanked, and therefore must fight or surrender. The latter alternative is not likely to be taken by the leaders without first trying the former.

Latest Paris Fashions.—The following description of the Paris fashions for the summer of 1861, is translated from the best authorities of such momentous affairs.

The light and gauze-like materials which have been prepared for summer weather, are now in great demand. Grenadines, Chambery gauzes, organdis, and painted muslins, form charming toilettes for hot days. However the material most in mode for negligee dresses, decidedly, is piques, with a pattern of small flowers over it. For this kind of dress, there are also other kind of materials, such as poils de chevre, or thin taffetas, grisailles, and checked or brocaded. The mode often used for these is the high body, called Empress—the body and skirt being without seams in front, and sleeves with reverse mousquetaires. They are sometimes trimmed up the front breadths and the seams of the body, with ruches of silk, or, better still, with rosettes or bows, or passementerie, of which there is always a great variety. When these toilettes of which we are speaking are exclusively meant for indoor dress, some ladies complete it with a Zouave vest of the same material as the dress, and trimmed round with a band of colored taffetas or poplin.

In this case, of course, the skirt must be trimmed in a manner suitable to the vest, sometimes by a band of taffetas, from 9 to 15 inches in width, placed round the top of the hem; sometimes a band up the front of the skirt; or three bands, the middle one from the waist to the bottom of the skirt, the other carried round in tunic form. Taffetas, of all shades, is still worn with the Pompadour bouquets, chine and shaded, upon a light colored ground, as mauve or faded leaf, and with small cross-bars or lozenges, or darker shades, dotted or speckled with a bright color. The color most fashionable for this kind of dress is gold color, upon a black ground.

Simple walking dresses are frequently made in redingote fashion, particularly when composed of foulard. Their trimming consists of tabs, edged with a narrow ribbon, of a suitable color, with buttons to match—or, still more frequently, with a row of foulard bows, with embroidered ends.

There is a very pretty way of trimming bareges in vogue. A band of barege, about half a yard wide, is fluted, and placed round the bottom; another, a little more than half the width of the first, and, if it is wished, a third, not quite so wide as the last. They may be trimmed with taffetas of the same color as the barege.

Upon taffetas dresses, wide ribbon, covered with black guipure, is sometimes worn; the ribbon is white upon grey, mauve or green dresses. Long sashes are worn, and fastened behind, but without bows. Very choice sashes are made of black ribbon, the ends worked with bouquets of field flowers, roses, lilac, &c. The ribbon is very wide, and fringed at the ends.

Summer mantles are divided into two classes—those for visiting or town wear, and those for the evening, for country, or for travelling. They are made in various styles. There is the large casque of taffetas, called the redingote, the silk paletot, the mantelet and the shawl. The large casaque, half fitting to the figure, and the mantelet are more suitable for young girls; the silk paletot for older persons; the mantelet, trimmed with guipure or Chantilly, and the Cachemire shawl, black or colored, with a very wide black or white lace, suit all ages.

Some of our most fashionable artistes are getting tired of so much sameness in the trimmings of bonnets, and have declared war against the mode, by putting one kind of flower outside, and quite an opposite trimming inside the bonnet, at the same time taking great care that there is no want of harmony, or else a pleasing contrast in color. Thus a rice-straw bonnet, edged with green velvet; brides of blonde tied in bows at the top of the crown, which is of figured tulle. At the side, a bouquet of lilies of the valley, with their leaves. Inside the bonnet, two Bengal roses, and foliage.

Bonnets are generally lined with colored silk. This is very becoming, as the color that best suits his complexion can be chosen. A white, crinoline bonnet, with white crepe curtain, striped with narrow black velvet, and edged with lace. At the edge of the front is a rosette of black lace, on which is placed a rose, surrounded with its buds and a bunch of grapes.

The Future of the Seceded States.—The following paragraph, taken from "The Ordeal of Battle" in the July Atlantic, may lead to serious reflection.

"Take the seceded States upon their own showing, and it is absurd to suppose that they can ever resume their former standing in the [illegible] been broken, any closer ties to honesty than their financiers have spurned, any deeds more damning than their Legislatures have voted thanks for? No one supposes that the individual traitors can be restored to confidence; that Twiggs can re-dye his reputation, or any deep sea soundings fish up Maury's drowned honor. But the influence of the States is gone with that of their representatives. They may worship the graven image of President Lincoln in Mobile; they may do homage to the ample stuffed regimentals of General Butler in Charleston, but it will not make the nation forget. Could their whole delegation resume its seat in Congress to-morrow, with the three fifths representation intact, it would not help them. Can we ever trust them to build a ship or construct a rifle again? No time, no formal act can restore the past relations, so long as slavery shall live. It is easy for the Executive to pardon some convict from the penitentiary; but who can pardon him out of that sterner prison of public distrust, which closes its disembodied walls around him, moves with his motions, and never suffers him to walk unconscious of it again? Henceforth he dwells as under the shadow of swords, and holds intercourse with men only by courtesy, not confidence. And so will they."

During the thunder storm on Saturday last, about six o'clock p. m., the lightning struck the dividing stone wall between the farms of Samuel Martin and William Usher, on the main road leading to Warren, throwing down portions of the wall for a distance of over two hundred feet. The lightning first struck in a wall running east and west, and ran about fifty feet to a wall running north and south, when a portion of the fluid passed on to the north wall and extended about one hundred feet, the remainder passed along on the west wall also about one hundred feet. Heavy stones were almost ground to powder, others were split into numberless pieces, and others thrown some distance from the walls. Mr Usher, who was at the time in his small barn on the east side of the road, felt the heat of the lightning on each side of his face.—Bristol Phenix.

A Dodge.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says:

"It has leaked out among Virginia secessionists that the removal of the Confederate Congress to Richmond was merely a dodge to win over the wavering in the State to the support of Jeff. Davis' secession movement. There was no intention to make Richmond the place of permanent occupancy—the object being to 'secede' at their convenience, whenever it was in the interest of the leaders to do so. The portable government of Jefferson D. & Co. is not difficult to transport, and Virginians need not be surprised at any time to learn that it has gone off in the last train.

Consular Appointments.—The following consuls have been appointed:—Edward Trowbridge, of Connecticut, to Bermuda; Wm. Porter, of Louisiana, Tripoli; J. P. Hatterscheidt, of Kansas, Moscow; W. F. Nast, of Kentucky, Stuttgardt; Wm. Bebb, of Tennessee, Tangier; Wm. H. Russell, of Missouri, Trinidad; John E. Newport, of Pennsylvania, Turks Island; James Clunehman, of California, Valparaiso; Charles J. Sundell, of Illinois, Stettin; H. M. Walsh, of Pennsylvania, Leghorn; A. B. Bradford, of Pennsylvania, Antwerp; John C. Underwood, of Virginia, Callao; George True, of Ohio, Funchal; James E. Vinton, of Wisconsin, Halifax; R. R. Baker, of Ohio, Matanzas; Seth Webber, Jr., of Massachusetts, commercial agent at Port au Prince.

Closing Up.—The Union Fire Insurance Company of this city, at its annual meeting Wednesday, voted to close up its affairs, and refund moneys due on unexpired policies, or re-insure the risks. Yesterday, a resolution authorizing them to do so, was introduced into the Legislature. S. A. Ensign was elected President for the remainder of the Company's existence. The Directors considered the course adopted by them, as the best for all concerned. They can pay 95 per cent, and do the business up without delay, saving stockholders a risk of greater loss.—Hartford Courant.

Firing into Friendly Troops.—The Bethel affair was not the only instance which has occurred of our troops firing into each other. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes that "portions of the two attacking columns at Philippa actually fired on each other, precisely as the Federal troops at Bethel did, and the fact that they were over half a mile apart was all that prevented a terrible slaughter."

Edward Everett, at the request of distinguished citizens of New York, will deliver an oration on the 4th of July, at the Academy of Music. The subject will be, "The Present Aspect of the Nation," and an entrance fee will be charged for the benefit of families of the volunteers.

Pawtucket.

School Picnic.—The scholars of Grove street Grammar School, of which P. E. Tillinghast, Esq., is Principal, have a picnic to Mason's Grove this afternoon. Speeches are expected from the Rev. Joseph Banvard and others.

Relics.—The key of the Marshall House, Alexandria, in which the unfortunate Col. Ellsworth was murdered is now in possession of Mr. Alfred H. Littlefield, of this place. Several pieces of carpet, stair railing, &c., have also been forwarded to this place by members of Co. B.

Whiskey vs. Collars.—We are informed that a young man of this place recently went on a pleasure excursion, which was to last two or three days, and in packing his valise for the journey he put in one shirt collar and—twelve bottles of whiskey!

Valley Falls.

Flag Raising.—A beautiful American flag was raised over the school house, near the depot in this village at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the ceremonies being witnessed by a large number of people. Appropriate addresses were made by Revs. John Jennings, of Woonsocket, Joseph Banvard, of Pawtucket, and J. O. Richardson, of Valley Falls. The speeches were interspersed with patriotic songs by the children. Much enthusiasm was manifested by the spectators, and cheers were given for the flag, the Union, the speakers and the school. The flag was procured wholly by the contributions of the teachers and scholars and was made by the girls belonging to the school, under the direction of Miss Clarissa Cargill, the Principal.

Warren.

Painful Effects of the Tornado.—A glazier "who ought to know" about the matter reports that upwards of 8000 panes of glass, broken by the tempest last Sunday in Warren. This is exclusive of the panes which various persons have "taken pains" to set without calling in the glazier.

A New Rifle.

Messrs. Editors:—In this day of improvements in fire-arms, every new gun becomes a subject of public interest. Permit us to call attention to a new rifle just being introduced by our fellow citizen, O. D. Schubarth. We were present, a few days since, and witnessed a trial of its merits and do not hesitate to say that it is one of the most efficient rifles we have ever seen. For force, accuracy, and facility of loading quick, we have never seen a superior. So certain as it becomes under the ordeal of a faithful trial by the War Department, it will rival the very best now in use in the army. It throws a heavy ball—about fourteen to the pound—and will hit up a mile with less elevation than any other gun in use. The trial we witnessed the other day impressed us that, in the hands of a marksman, Jeff Davis would stand little chance at the distance of half a mile. This powerful gun is scarcely out of the hands of the builder, when it is we can promise you some very rare illustrations of target shooting on a long range. N.

The Noble Bust of Dr. Wayland, by Ball, which has been for some weeks on exhibition at [illegible], will in a few days be removed to Brown University. We hope that any of our citizens who appreciate a fine likeness or a beautiful work of art, and may not find it convenient to call at the University, will avail themselves of the privilege extended for a few days longer, of visiting this beautiful piece of statuary at its present depository.

The Sea Serpent.—A veritable specimen of this somewhat apocryphal member of the animal kingdom is claimed to have been seen on Long Island Sound at a place called "The Race," by the crew of the sloop Painter, a day or two since on their trip from New York to this city. The length of his snakeship was variously estimated by them as being from six to sixteen feet and his diameter was apparently about three inches. He was about twenty rods from the vessel when seen, and was shot at by a sailor but without effect.

Masonic.—The M. W. Grand Lodge, it will be noticed, will celebrate St. John's Day (Monday) with the new Lodge at Portsmouth. Brethren from this city will go down in the steamer Sylph, leaving at 8 o'clock, and returning in the evening. Although the demonstration will be less imposing than on some former occasions, the ancient fraternity will doubtless find a festival worthy of the day.

Cherry Trees in Blossom.—A friend this morning exhibited to us a few branches of cherry trees from the Moses Brown farm, in Johnston, which are luxuriant with buds and blossoms. The earlier blossoms were killed by the frost, and the trees seem to have set out with a fresh start. These are wonderful times.

A Gentleman in New Jersey, named Speer, raises the Portugal Sambucus,—a rare fruit,—from which he makes an excellent wine, without the use of sugar or spirits, that is becoming celebrated among medical gentlemen in our large cities and used in hospitals, as a superior article. Physicians recommend it as an invaluable article for weakness and general debility. It is a very gentle stimulant and at the same time a rich, nutritive wine, possessing the virtues that make it valuable for weakly persons, and for general family use at this season of the year. Some of our first doctors say it is far superior to port or other wines. Our druggists have been getting some that is four years old, from the vineyard in New Jersey. It is called Speer's Sambuci Wine. It costs but 75 cents a bottle, and is said to be excellent for females.

Frank Rivers' Melodeon Troupe.—The exhibitions which are to be given by this company at the Academy of Music next week, seem to promise unusually well for rich and varied amusement. Its fifty-four performers comprise a corps de ballet, a dramatic company, an Ethiopian troupe, a full orchestra, a cornet band and a collection of celebrated vocalists. They have left Philadelphia, where they are regularly established, for a short summer trip, during which they have given great satisfaction at every place they have visited. The New Haven Palladium says:

"Frank Rivers' magnificent troupe from Philadelphia continues to draw crowded houses at Music Hall. The 'Scotch Tramp March,' last evening, was received with greater favor by the audience than anything that has yet been offered by this extraordinary company. The beauty, vivacity, grace and skill of the young girls forming the corps de ballet, place them as a ballet troupe in advance of anything now in this country. A new programme is offered to-night, in the course of which the Grand Union March will be introduced, in which the dancers will carry the shields of the several States. The effect of this piece is said to be very impressive."

If you Want GOOD PICTURES! And at the same time have them cheap, go to J. B. THURSTON'S GALLERY, No. 94 Westminster street, OPPOSITE THE BEE HIVE.

To Stable Keepers and Owners of Horses.

MARLOR'S CONDITION AND DIURETIC POWDER, For Loss of Appetite, Hide-bound, Staring Coat, and removal of Urinary Obstructions.—This Composition has been used in the Emperor of Austria's stables for a number of years, and his horses are super for condition and beautiful glossy coats (which are produced by this powder) are the admiration of all who have seen them. It is also well known that internal diseases in his stud are of rare occurrence. One box is sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical.

MARLOR'S ANTHELMINTIC OR WORM POWDER. A certain destroyer of Botts. The symptoms of Worms are a rough, staring, harsh coat; [illegible] or sometimes a craving appetite; and often the appearance of a white, [illegible] substance at the anus; and frequently an itching of the anus, and a disposition to rub the tail. This composition I have used very successfully in my practice for a number of years, and a single box will prove the assertion, if worms of any description are present.

MARLOR'S HEAVE POWDERS, For Heaves, Pneumonia, Thick Wind, Roaring and Chronic Cough.

MARLOR'S GRIPE TINCTURE, [illegible] known by the terms, Gripes, Cramps, &c. Having used this compound for several years in my practice with a [illegible] success, and knowing that a great many horses are lost from improper treatment when first attacked with the above named disease, and others from not being able to procure immediate professional attendance, I have been induced to give the public the benefit of it.

MARLOR'S OINTMENT FOR THE HORSE. In all cases of Lameness, &c., stands unrivalled. It is the only certain remedy for Spavin, Splint, Ringbone and all other bony enlargements; for Curbs, Diseased Ligaments or Tendons, Indolent Tumors, Quitor, Distemper of angles, Sore Throat, Chronic Cough, &c. It can in some cases be applied during work. It is cheaper and more efficacious than common blisters, and although the most active and powerful absorbent known, and ever so repeatedly used, is warranted never to blemish.

MARLOR'S LOTION. For the cure of Grease, Scratches and Thrush, in Horses. It is also invaluable for promoting healing, especially in [illegible] and sloughing wounds, [illegible] and at the same time promoting the healing beneath, or the closing of the old [illegible].

Also, from the following valuable Roots, Herbs, &c., viz: Solomon's Seal, Spikenard, Comfrey, Camomile Flowers, Gentian, Wild Cherry Tree Bark and Bayberry.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE THEIR EQUAL! We do not profess to have discovered some Root "known only to the Indians of South America," and a sure cure for "all diseases which the flesh is heir to," but we claim to present to the public a truly valuable preparation, which every intelligent physician in the country will approve of and recommend. As a remedy for INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, Weak Lungs, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Nervous System, Paralysis, Piles, Diseases peculiar to Females, Debility, and all cases requiring a Tonic, they are UNSURPASSED! For Sore Throat, so common among the Clergy they are truly valuable. For the aged and infirm, or for persons of a weak constitution—for Ministers of the Gospel, Lawyers and all public speakers—for Book Keepers, Tailors, Seamstresses, Students, Artists, and all persons leading a sedentary life, they will prove truly beneficial. As a Beverage, they are wholesome, innocent and delicious to the taste. They produce all the exhilarating effects of Brandy or Wine, without intoxicating and are a valuable remedy for persons addicted to excessive use of strong drink, and wish to refrain from it. They are pure and entirely free from the poison contained in the adulterated Wines and Liquors with which the country is flooded. These Bitters not only CURE but PREVENT Disease, and should be used by all who live in a country where the water is bad, or where Chills and Fevers are prevalent. Being entirely innocent and harmless, they may be freely given to Children and Infants with impunity. Physicians, Clergymen, and temperance advocates as an act of humanity, should assist in spreading these truly valuable BITTERS over the land, and thereby essentially aid in banishing Drunkenness and Disease. Monetary and Commercial.

[From the New York Evening Post of Friday.]
Stocks are lower and heavy to-day. The stirring news from the vicinity of Washington are [illegible] causing some pressure to sell, and prices have fallen off ⅛@1 per cent. The decline is quite general, extending to nearly all the speculative stocks, though at the close there is a fair degree of steadiness.
In State stocks there is a decline of one per cent in Missouri Sixes, while other descriptions show no important alteration. California Sevens are the firmest of the list and are wanted at 77. New York State sixes are in good demand at 99@100, and several hundred thousand would find buyers at a fraction within par. Illinois and Indiana bonds are neglected.
Government bonds are quiet to-day but are fairly steady, and the Sixes of 1881 are ¼@½ per cent easier to buy.
Railroad bonds are without noticeable change. There is a fair investment demand, and as few lots are seeking buyers prices remain firm.
The supply of money is without any alteration whatever. The business on call is very small at 4@5 per cent on good collaterals.
Exchange on London is steady at 106½@106⅝, but on Paris rates are lower, the supply of francs, on account of the larger shipments of produce to that country, being on the increase. First class francs range from 5.42½@5.30.
But gold coin is quite scarce in Wall street at present and it is difficult to get together lots of $5000 or $10,000 without paying a slight premium. This coin is used at the seat of war, and at various points in the interior was ward. There is an abundance of large denominations, nearly all the returns from the [illegible] being of that kind.

THE LATEST NEWS!!

BY THE AMERICAN LINE, NO. 9 WASHINGTON ROW.

THE WAR.

VARIOUS WASHINGTON DESPATCHES.
Heavy Rebel Loss at Edward's Ferry.
&c. &c. &c.

WASHINGTON, June 21.
[Herald despatch.] Gen. McDowell continues to advance his lines. Five thousand of his division moved to-day from Ball's cross roads to the vicinity of Falls Church, a point about three miles from Fairfax Court House and the same from Vienna.
Reconnoissance in the direction of the latter in the afternoon, proved that there were 2,500 rebels there, and it was thought that if they should be reinforced, a battle is inevitable at that point.
It is reported that a collision occurred this morning between the picket guard of the 2d Connecticut regiment, and the rebel picket near Falls Church. The Connecticut picket had been ordered to occupy the position held by the rebel picket. On taking possession, one Connecticut man was killed and four wounded. Loss of the other side was supposed greater. The report needs confirmation.
Our army on the Potomac is so distributed that it can be concentrated on any point inside of two hours. It now consists of fully 46,000 effective men.
There is reason to believe that most of Johnston's command from Harper's Ferry is now in the vicinity of Leesburg and Edward's Ferry.
There was a case of poisoning in the 2d Maine regiment's camp to-day. The men became violently ill. They had eaten pie purchased of a pie vender, which upon examination was found to be filled with pounded glass. One man is expected to die and the others are in a dangerous condition. The pie vender has not been discovered.
A Times despatch states that it is understood that the cavalry regiment to be raised in Iowa is to be commanded by Fitz Henry Warren, and will be engaged in Texas in concert with two regiments raised at Santa Fe.
Ex-Gov. Wright, of California, has been authorized to raise a regiment of cavalry for service in Arizona.
Two Massachusetts refugees for some time residents in Macon, Ga., and impressed into one of the Georgia companies in service at the battery at Sewall's Point, made their escape Thursday morning and made important disclosures to Gen. Butler.
The battery there consists of five columbiads, fifty four pieces of smaller calibre, besides three rifled cannon. On the road to Norfolk two other batteries have been formed of guns taken from the Gosport Navy Yard.
The force consists at the point of 500 men, at Norfolk 15,000, and at intermediate points 2,000.
H. Cobb, to some disaffected troops from Georgia, pledged his honor that within three months the confederate troops should occupy Washington, and subdue the entire Union forces of the North.
It is the opinion of these two men that the Government should prepare for a long and vigorous war.
The World's despatches say that 40 or 50 Virginians were killed by the bombs and shells from our side in the fight at Edward's Ferry.

JEFF. GETTING FRIGHTENED.
HE PROPOSES TO HAVE PEACE RESTORED.

NEW YORK, June 22.
The 29 regiment left yesterday, for Washington.
The reported fight at Long Bridge, Washington, was a canard.
A Washington correspondent of the World telegraphs that Jeff. Davis has sent to Washington [illegible] who submitted two propositions to the Government.
The first was the recognition of the existence of the Southern Confederacy, and that the latter be permitted for the term of one, two or three years to carry on their government as an experiment; that the expenses of the war be equitably arranged between the two sections, and each do its best for the maintenance of friendly feeling and intercourse, and if at the expiration of the time agreed upon it is found that their experiment cannot succeed, that a commission be appointed to reconstruct a Union. This was peremptorily rejected.
The second proposition was that the South would be content if the government would pledge itself to pass at the coming session of Congress an irrepealable Constitutional provision recognizing slavery below the line of 36 30; this done the Southern provisional government would then pledge itself to instantly abandon the war, re-establish peace, and the most cordial relationship as far as its section was concerned, redirect trade into its accustomed channels, and in every way restore the happy days of our forefathers.
My informant says this, this, too, was peremptorily rejected. Others say this proposition will not be acceptable to the Secretary of State, and therefore will meet with no favor from the President.

FROM TENNESSEE.
A STRONG UNION MOVEMENT IN THE EAST PROBABLE.

WASHINGTON, June 22.
A special to the Herald states that gentlemen here who are in communication with the Union men of East Tennessee, are of the opinion that the convention called at Knoxville, will pursue a course similar to that adopted by the Wheeling Convention.
They will repudiate the usurpers at Nashville, elect a Governor and organize a State government as nearly as possible in conformity with the provisions of the State Constitution, and call upon all the loyal men of Tennessee to rally to their support.

THE WHEELING CONVENTION, on Friday adopted an ordinance relating to the disbursements of the public revenue, and providing for the appointment of an Auditor, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Commonwealth; also an ordinance fixing the salaries of certain officers.
A resolution was offered and referred, recommending to the federal authorities the construction of a military road from Webster to the North Western railroad southward to a suitable point in Western Virginia.
A resolution was adopted that a copy of the Declaration and signatures be forwarded to the President of the United States.
The Convention adjourned till Monday to give the committee of seventeen time to perfect an ordinance for the organization of the State militia.

THE CAPITOL.—A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press writes from Washington:
"The Capitol is being rapidly prepared for the session. It has been in no way defaced, and will be opened on the 4th as freshly as a summer rose, full blown. People must not believe the idle stories of the newspapers, about injury being done by the troops quartered in our 'marble halls.' An American soldier is as good as a member of Congress, any day. They have proven themselves decidedly worthy their cloth, and nowhere more so than in the Capitol, where they were quartered several weeks."

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.—A Washington telegram says:
"Mrs. Lincoln and two sons, and Mrs. Grimsley, accompanied by Gen. Walbridge, had a narrow escape this afternoon, the horses attached to their carriage running away, but were rescued by the gallantry of the members of the 25th New York regiment."

SAD ACCIDENT.—A son of Mr John A. Smith, who resides on High street, was firing powder on Wednesday, first covering up the powder with gravel, when it exploded, throwing the dust and small stones in his face with great force and badly burning it. He is at present unable to see, and it is feared that he will lose the sight of one or both eyes. The little boy, who is only 7 or 8 years old, bears his sufferings with fortitude. We hope this will be a caution to other boys not to play with cannons, powder, or any other dangerous materials of war.—Fall River News.

THERE'S A GENERAL FOR YOU.—It is stated that Brig. Gen. Schenck's expedition to Vienna was accompanied by a surgeon, but neither instruments nor medicines for the relief of the wounded.

THE MAINE STATE LOAN.—Offers for the Maine loan, from par to four per cent premium have been made largely in excess of the amount called for.

SECOND EDITION.

FROM FORT MONROE.
IMPORTANT MOVEMENTS OF THE REBELS.

FORTRESS MONROE, June 21.
The regiment which yesterday made a reconnoissance towards Great Bethel, returned late in the evening, having gone to the neighborhood of Little Bethel bridge. No intelligence of importance was gained. It is understood, however, that the Confederates are concentrating a large force at Yorktown.
Two hundred of the Naval Brigade encamped to-day at Hampton. The remnant of the Brigade is under command of Col. Wardrope, of the 3d Massachusetts regiment.
The excessive heat of the past few days is very trying to our troops in active service. Facilities for sea bathing however contribute to their health and comfort.
The wounded at the hospital are doing well. Private Vincennes shot through the chest at Big Bethel, is in a fair way of recovery.
Immense quantities of hospital stores have arrived within a few days.
Important information was obtained from so called spies of Sewall's Point. I am not at liberty to state all that has come to light, but it is safe to say that important movements are going on at Sewall's and Willoughby Points; the latter opposite the Rip Raps.
In a letter brought down by the flag of truce a few hours ago, Colonel Magruder addressed Gen. Butler as the Commandant at Fortress Monroe. The reply contained the gentle reminder that Butler commands the Department of Virginia. It appears by the letter that they have but one prisoner.
A large number of officers go North to-night on furlough. Quartermaster McArthur has proceeded with government orders.

FROM WASHINGTON TO-DAY.

WASHINGTON, June 22.
Speaker Allen, of Indiana, returns to Indianapolis, to morrow, with a requisition for four additional regiments, to be taken from the 1st, 2d, and 3d Congressional Districts. A large number of companies are already organized.
At 2 o'clock this morning a camp half a mile from Georgetown was thrown into alarm, but the commotion soon subsided. It may have been occasioned by a firing at the pickets, as according to the reports of the soldiers, secession scouts for some time past have been indulging in such amusements on both sides of the river.
Another evidence of active war preparations is in the fact that Quartermaster General Meigs advertises for baggage wagons (!)

SAILING OF STEAMERS.
New York, June 22.—The Glasgow took 196 passengers and the Fulton 149.

SATURDAY, June 22.
George McCardy was committed to the Reform School during his minority, for theft.
Edward Calvin, for an assault on his wife, was fined $1 and costs and required to give surety in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

Police Court.
SATURDAY, June 22.
Phebe Maine was committed for 90 days, for vagrancy.

KENTUCKY CONGRESSMEN.—It is conceded that the Union candidates to Congress have all been chosen, except Burnett, who is undoubtedly elected.

THE FUNERAL OF MAJOR WINTHROP, at New Haven, Friday afternoon, was attended by a procession of over 1000 persons, including the Veteran Greys, the Governor's Foot Guard, the Emmet Guard, Russell's School [illegible], the National Blues, the officers of the Horse Guards, the members of the city government, the Yale students, &c., &c. The hearse was draped in the American flag. During its passage up Chapel street the bells were tolled and the cannon fired. The flags throughout the city were at half mast, and many of the stores on Chapel street were draped in mourning.

MR MERRYMAN'S CASE.—Marshal Bonifant is summoning witnesses from Baltimore county to appear before the Grand Jury on Monday, in the case of Mr Merryman, both as to burning of the bridges and acts against Union men in that vicinity. The Grand Jury are all unconditional Union men.

PERTINENT, IF NOT PROFANE.—One of the Maine boys who stacked arms in the New York Park dropped the following scrap of poetry. He was probably the Chaplain:

"Scott works in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps on S. C.,
And rides upon the storm."

CASUALTIES OF THE WAR.—Since the commencement of the present conflict there have been the following casualties among our troops, the rebels and citizens: Soldiers died by disease, 5; killed in battle, 98; wounded in battle, 72; killed accidentally, 10; wounded accidentally, 52, soldiers killed in riot, 9, citizens killed in riot, 18; rebels killed, as near as can be ascertained, 259.

CROPS IN KENTUCKY.—The Bowling Green Standard says the wheat harvest has commenced in that section. Never in the history of Barren county has wheat been so fine or so abundant. The yield will be enormous. Fruit trees, also, of every kind are groaning under their burdens of rapidly maturing fruit.—Louisville Journal.

The Washington National Republican says it is probable that Congress will place means at the disposal of the President for the colonization of such of our colored people as desire to emigrate to Hayti, and that the contraband slaves now held by the federal troops will be included in this measure.

Mrs. Judge Douglas, widow of the late Senator Douglas, passed through Baltimore on Wednesday, en route from Chicago to the city of Washington. She was accompanied by several of the young members of the bereaved family.

The Montreal Advertiser says: "The United States troubles have destroyed the Nova Scotia plaster trade. This year only 1000 tons have been shipped to that market, against 18,000 for the same term of the year previous. Thousands of tons are lying on the wharves at Windsor worthless."

PATRICK GIVES PLACE TO CUFFY.—The New York Express says that William O'Brien has been removed from the position of marker in the Custom House at that port, and Robert Vosburg, a negro, appointed in his place.

Joseph W. Taggart, formerly of Middletown, has been appointed Postmaster at Wiscasset, Me., vice Silas L. Young. He will probably enter upon the duties of his office 1st of July.

The Evansville (Indiana) Journal says that Indiana pays $9 for the same kind of tents that cost Ohio $25.

The latest description of the difference between a good soldier and a fashionable young lady is, one faces the powder and the other powders the face.

POSTSCRIPT.

THREE O'CLOCK.

FROM THE WEST AND SOUTH.
THE CONFEDERATES IN VIRGINIA FIND A FIRE IN THE REAR.

LOUISVILLE, June 22.
On and after Monday freight over the Nashville Railroad will be refused, unless permitted to pass through by the Surveyor of the port.
The Journal says 2000 guns were stopped yesterday at Jeffersonville, consigned to Louisville, until satisfactory assurances are received that they are for Union men.
The papers contain letters from Gen. Buckner to Gov. Magoffin, giving the particulars of an agreement made between Gen McClellan and the Kentucky authorities. The latter will protect United States property in the State, enforce the laws of the United States, according to the interpretation of the United States courts, and enforce all the obligations of neutrality as against the Southern States.
McClellan agrees to respect the territory of Kentucky, even though the Southern armies occupy it; in such case, he will call on the Kentucky authorities to remove the Southern forces. Should Kentucky fail to do this, he claims the same right of occupation as is given to the South. Also, if Kentucky is unable to remove the Southern forces, she will call in the aid of the government troops. If successful in removing them, McClellan agrees to withdraw. If the Administration adopts a different line of policy, Kentucky is to have timely notice; if Kentucky changes, the same notice is to be given.
Of this arrangement Buckner gave Gov. Harris notice. Harris gave him the assurance that the territory of Kentucky would be respected until occupied by Federal troops, and gave orders to the Tennessee officers to this effect.
Owing to the excitement in Columbus, General Buckner has ordered a detachment of State Guards into camp there, to protect the citizens of Kentucky from all acts of lawlessness and aggression.
Hon. H. W. Burnett, secessionist, was elected in the First District of Kentucky by a large majority.
The Manassas correspondent of the Charleston Mercury, of the 18th, writes that the people about the rebel camp are hostile, and it is dangerous for soldiers to leave their camp alone. Gentlemen come into the camp for fear their own slaves will murder them. The lower classes of the whites are inciting the slaves to such a degree that civil war is on the point of inauguration.
Their own people are hostile in their rear. The latter apply for passports hourly, which Beauregard grants, provided no wagons &c., are taken from the State.
The Charleston Courier of the 10th, says a large sloop of war has been cruising near Dawes' Inlet, supposed to be sounding and reconnoitering. That portion of the coast is entirely unprotected, and unopposed depredations could be made upon the property and cattle found there.
The Louisville Journal says Andrew Johnson in a late speech at Lexington stated that he never wrote the letter to Mr. Lawrence, and never negotiated nor proposed to negotiate for money with anybody in the North.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.
New York, June 22.—Lieut. Walker, of the Goodwin Guards, of the New Hampshire 2d regiment, fell from the platform of one of the Jersey Central cars, yesterday, near Westfield, and had his ankle terribly crushed, and his thigh severely injured. There are no hopes of his recovery.

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS.

The Barometer at 9 P.M. yesterday stood at 29 81; at 9 P.M. 29 79, at 7 A.M. to-day 29 80, and at 2 P.M. 29 63.

AN EQUINE DESERTER.
Special Despatch to the Evening Press.

WESTERLY, June 22.
A horse was found yesterday, about 7 miles East of Watch Hill. It is supposed to have swam ashore, some 6 miles, from one of the steamers conveying the 2d Rhode Island Regiment, as he was equipped for the war. He is all right for a new start.

FURTHER FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 22.
Soldiers from the Virginia side say there was no important alarm last night. Others say it has been more quiet for the last two nights than heretofore.

NEW YORK, June 22.
A Washington despatch to the Post says that Senator Johnson, of Tennessee, is here (Washington.) He was fired at while coming through Cumberland Gap by the secessionists, but escaped.
Crittenden will offer his compromise at the coming session of Congress, probably coupled with a threat of the secession of Kentucky if it is not adopted.
The case of the condemned schooner Tropic Wind will probably be appealed to the Supreme Court. It is believed that government will not interfere with the due course of the law in the case of the capture of the pirates or privateers in the Savannah.
A special despatch to the Commercial says scouts returned to-day report a continued concentration of troops at Fairfax Court House.
There is considerable sickness among our troops, mainly summer complaints.
A special to the Post says good judges say there will be no battle for weeks,—perhaps none this side of Richmond, unless a skirmish or two.
The Rhode Island troops recently arrested three fugitive slaves.
It is reported that Government will soon prohibit army and navy catching negroes, that business belonging to the civil service.
It is quite probable that Secretary Chase will recommend the imposition of a slight income tax.

THROAT, LUNGS,
EYE AND EAR!
PROVIDENCE, April 16, 1861.
I have been troubled for several months with a severe cough, pains and soreness in the chest, the symptoms of Chronic Bronchitis for which I used all the usual remedies without avail, my disease continued to increase until it affected my throat and nose, producing in connection a Bronchial throat and catarrh. In fact, I became so bad that my friends and myself were fearful that I had a settled disease of the lungs. In this state, four weeks ago, I placed myself under the care of Dr. Daniels, of No. 8 Dorrance street. Upon his first application of medicine my catarrh disappeared as by magic and in a week my throat was like a new one, my cough and other symptoms have gradually subsided, and give me at the present time little or no inconvenience. Such is the benefit that I have received at his hands, that I take great pleasure in recommending him to those suffering from diseases of the throat and lungs.

In fact, I can say that I am a well man. Please accept my thanks for the great benefit I have received from your treatment. Very respectfully yours,

CLOTHES CLEANING.
The undersigned, having taken the store No. 70½ High street, corner of Grove's lane, with greater facilities for doing business, respectfully announces that he continues to clean Cloths, Shawls and Woollen Garments of every description, in the very best manner. An experience of more than twenty years in the business, enables him to refer to numerous firms and individuals, whose testimony will show that in the quality of his work he is not excelled by any one in the trade. He would also state that he does not pretend to make old clothes as good as new, yet his superior method of cleaning will enable gentlemen and ladies to wear many garments (after they shall have been renovated by him) that they would otherwise consider nearly worthless.
Garments sent from the country carefully cleaned and promptly returned. Gentlemen's cast off garments bought and sold.

In Memoriam.

Raise wide ye the windows! Let in the "fresh air;"
There's a soul that is struggling with death in there!
If 'tis air that can save him, oh, kneel down and pray,
That Heaven's cool breezes blow swiftly to-day.
Raise up the sufferer, that on his hot brow,
The pure airs of Heaven may play gently now.
Blow faster, ye breezes, for faint grows his breath,—
Nearer, still nearer, comes his enemy Death.

Is there naught that can save him? Oh men of rare lore,
Does this baffle your skill? Can ye do nothing more?
Oh! I need not to tell you the story to-day,
How a Nation will mourn if he passeth away.
Ye know how we need him. There'll be none who can fill
A place left by him, at whose magical will
Bowed the great and the gifted, the strong and the brave,
To the Patriot true, who his country would save.

Come nearer now and listen, for fainter grows his breath;
Can you catch what he now speaketh? 'Tis "Death! Death! Death!"
Cease your tears, anxious watchers, you'll have no need to tell
The pale sufferer there, for he knoweth it well,
That the toils of his earth life are over well nigh,
And the Master has called him to rest on High.
That the bright dreams he has cherished are almost o'er;
That he is going soon, where he'll never dream more.

Drop low now the curtain: Deep drape ye the door!
A soul just went on, that ne'er 'll come again more.
No power here could save him. No hand here can stay
A spirit that angels are beckoning away.
Oh! ye have marked it often, as I have, I ween,
'Tis the ones who are taken, that little we deem
Are the treasures whom God in His mercy all kind,
Thinks best we can spare, while He leaves others behind.

Oh! I've proved it oft, with many a tear and sigh,
That 'tis those we love best, He has need of on High.
'Tis our jewels most rare, and our treasures most dear,
Are the first we are called on to offer up here.
Oh! 'tis so relentless, to the will we must bow,
Though deep be the agony that wrings our hearts now.
Fain, fain, would we choose thee a victim to-day,
Thou would'st leave us no choice, but took him away.

By the shore of the Lake ye must lay him to rest,
On the green Prairie wild—'twas the spot he loved best,
Where the grass it grows rank, and the wild flowers bloom,
Is the place ye must choose for the great one's tomb.
Think ye not he was weary and worn with the strife,
So hard he has struggled in the battle of life?
Then let him lie down where there's naught can e'er break
The peace of his slumbers, till God bids him awake.

* * * * * * * *

Alone and afar from the great city's loud din,
They have carried their loved one, and there buried him.
Oh! then city so fair; once my own cherished home,
I charge thee, guard well thy lone grave of thy son.
The spot of soil thou canst not claim that gave him birth,
And yet he chose thy prairies for his home on earth.
Oh! treasure, hallowed be for aye the sacred spot,
Where he now dreamless sleeps, who ne'er must be forgot.

Blow softly, prairie winds, about his quiet tomb;
Ye flowers wild, oh! ever round him bud and bloom;
Break gently rippling waters by the silent shore,
In low soft murmurs, chanting dirges evermore,
Bend low ye willows green, while drooping branches wave,
Above the spot made hallowed now by DOUGLAS'S grave,
And ye pale watching stars, your tireless vigils keep,
While we beside his tomb will wail and watch and weep.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS,
City of Providence, June 4, 1861.

Whereas, the City Council of the City of Providence did, on the eighth day of April, 1861, ordain as follows:

Section 1. It is voted that it is necessary to raise, by a tax on real and personal estate, a sum not less than three hundred and twenty five thousand dollars, and not more than three hundred and thirty thousand dollars, to pay the debts and defray the charges and expenses of said city, and said city's proportion of the State taxes.

Section 2. It is voted that a sum not less than three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, and not more than three hundred and thirty thousand dollars, be raised by a tax on real and personal estate, and the same is hereby ordered to be levied upon the ratable property of said city, and the Board of Assessors of said city are hereby ordered to assess and apportion said tax upon the inhabitants of said city, and the ratable property therein, by the fifteenth day of September, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and sixty one, in the manner provided by law, and in accordance with the rules and regulations of said City Council.

And whereas, the fifth and sixth sections of chapter thirty-nine of the Revised Statutes require that the Assessors, before assessing the same, shall set up notices of the time and place of their meeting, in three public places in the town, for three weeks, or advertise in some newspaper printed or published in the town the same space of time, requiring every person and body corporate liable to taxation to bring in unto them a true and exact account of all his ratable estate, describing and specifying the value of every parcel of his real and personal estate, at such time as they may prescribe, and every person bringing in any such account shall make oath before some one of the Assessors that the account by him exhibited contains, to the best of his knowledge and judgment, a true and full account and valuation of all his ratable estate. And whoever neglects or refuses to bring in such account, if over-taxed shall have no remedy therefor.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that in accordance with the aforesaid statute, the Board of Assessors will be in session at the Assessors' office, in Providence, from Friday the 28th day of June to Monday the fifteenth day of July next, inclusive (Sundays excepted) daily, from 9 o'clock a. m. to 12 o'clock m., and from 3 to 5 p. m., for the purpose of receiving such accounts.

For Statesmen, Judges, Editors, Physicians of the oldest schools as well as new, give it their unqualified sanction and recommend it for all cases of eruptions, and diseases of the scalp and brain; but all who have used it unite in testifying that it will preserve the hair from being gray, and from falling to any age, as well as restore. Read the following:

OAK GROVE, S. C., June 24th, 1859

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir: Your Hair Restorative is rapidly gaining popularity in this community. I have had occasion to lay prejudice aside, and give your Hair Restorative a perfect test.

During the year 1854, I was so unfortunate as to be thrown from my sulky against a rock near the roadside, from which my head received a most terrible blow, causing a great deal of irritation, which communicated to the brain and external surface of the head, from the effects of which my hair was finally destroyed over the entire surface of the head. From the time I first discovered its dropping, however, up to the time of its total disappearance, I employed everything I could think of, being a professional man myself, and, as I thought, understanding the nature of the disease, but was finally defeated in every prescription advanced.

These and no other circumstances induced me to resort to your worthy Hair Restorative, which I have every reason to believe, produced a very happy result; two months after the first application, I had as beautiful a head of young hair as I ever saw, for which I certainly owe you my most sincere thanks. Rest assured, dear sir, I shall recommend your remedy to all inquirers; moreover, I shall use my influence, which I flatter myself is any, is not a little.

You can publish this, if you think proper.

Yours, very respectfully, M. J. WRIGHT, M. D.

Office of the Jeffersonian, Philippi, Va., Dec. 12, 1858

Dear Sir:—I feel it my duty as well as my pleasure to state to you the following circumstances, which you can use as you think proper. A gentleman of this place, (a lawyer,) has been bald ever since his early youth; so much so that he was compelled to wear a wig. He was induced to use a bottle of your "Hair Restorative," which he liked very much; and after using some two or three bottles his hair grew out quite luxuriantly, and he now has a handsome head of hair. The gentleman's name is Bradford, and as he is very well known in our adjoining counties, many persons can testify to the truth of this statement; I give it to you at the request of Mr. Bradford. You can sell a great deal of your Hair Restorative in this and the adjoining counties if you have the proper agents.

Yours, &c., THOMPSON BURGHNOR

DR. WOOD: Dear Sir:—Permit me to express the obligations I am under for the entire restoration of my hair to its original color; about the time of my arrival in the United States, it was rapidly turning gray, but upon the application of your "Hair Restorative" it soon recovered its original hue. I consider your Restorative as a very wonderful invention, quite efficacious as well as agreeable. S. THALBERG.

The Restorative is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium and small; the small holds ½ a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle, the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for three dollars per bottle.

FRENCH LUNAR DROPS.

The only certain and safe remedy for females in all cases of Suppression or Irregularities, no matter from what cause, in all recent cases they are warranted to give relief. The Drops are the result of an extensive practice, and not discovered by accident. To eulogise their virtues would not add to their merit. We would only say, try them. They are invariably certain to regulate the female system, and can be taken without hazard. For consultation on all diseases incident to females, apply personally or by letter to

WILCOX'S DOUBLE CYLINDER
AIR ENGINE.
WILCOX, DENISON & TAYLOR,
OF WESTERLY, R. I.,
Are manufacturing an entirely new and improved style of Air Engines, which they are ready to furnish, at short notice, to persons desiring limited motors—from one to four horse power. The following are some of the peculiar advantages possessed by these Engines:

They are light, compact, perfectly safe, economical, and so simple that they can be managed by a boy with ease, performing any labor usually done by steam power. They run at high speed—from 90 to 200 revolutions per minute, smoothly, with little noise, and can therefore be used in any place where power is desired. The space they occupy on the floor, and the prices of the various sizes are as follows:

Engines with two 12 in. cylinders, 22x37 in., price $400.
Engines with two 18 in. cylinders, 31x48 in., price $550.
Engines with two 24 in. cylinders, 38x63 in., price $750.

Other sizes made to order. Full particulars furnished by letter, on application.

Parties desiring motors are requested to state what machinery they propose to drive, when they will be informed what sized Engine will be best suited to their purposes.

BININGER'S
GENUINE
COGNAC BRANDY!

The infamous practice of adulterating Brandies having become so common that a genuine article is the exception, it is of vital importance to those requiring it for family use and invalids, that it should be of undoubted purity and efficacy.

With a view to meeting the popular demand for a reliable Brandy in its natural state, free from alcoholic flavor and impurities, and fully appreciating the fact that it is often recommended by the Medical Faculty, as a sustaining stimulant, when all other remedies fail, we are now bottling and selling at reasonable rates, a Brandy of our own importation, from one of the most responsible houses in France, and known as

"Bininger's Genuine Cognac Brandy."

It is mild, delicate and fruity, and is designed to be always uniform in quality and character. Put up in pint and quart bottles, in cases containing two dozen pints and one dozen quarts, and is sold by all prominent druggists, grocers and town agents.

The above is also for sale in original packages, viz: Eighths and Quarter Casks.

PROF. L. MILLER'S
Hair Invigorator,
AN EFFECTIVE, SAFE AND ECONOMICAL COMPOUND,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR to its original color without dyeing, and preventing the Hair from turning gray.
FOR PREVENTING BALDNESS, and curing it, when there is the least particle of vitality or recuperative energy remaining.
FOR REMOVING SCURF AND DANDRUFF, and all cutaneous affections of the scalp.
FOR BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, imparting to it an unequalled gloss and brilliancy, making it soft and silky in its texture, and causing it to curl readily.

The great celebrity and the increasing demand for this unequalled preparation, convince the proprietor that one trial is only necessary to satisfy a discerning public of its superior qualities over any other preparation at present in use. It cleanses the head and scalp from dandruff and other cutaneous diseases. Causes the hair to grow luxuriantly, and gives it a rich, soft, glossy and flexible appearance, and also where the hair is loosening and thinning, it will give strength and vigor to the roots, and restore the growth to those parts which have become bald, causing it to yield a fresh covering of hair.

There are hundreds of ladies and gentlemen in New York who have had their hair restored by the use of this Invigorator, when all other preparations had failed. L. M. has in his possession letters innumerable, testifying to the above facts, from persons of the highest respectability. It will effectually prevent the hair from turning gray until the latest period of life, and in cases where the hair has already changed its color, the use of the Invigorator will with certainty restore it to its original hue, giving it a dark, glossy appearance. As a perfume for the toilet and a Hair Restorative it is particularly recommended, having an agreeable fragrance; and the great facilities it affords in dressing the hair, which, when moist with the Invigorator, can be dressed in any required form so as to preserve its place, whether plain or in curls—hence the great demand for it by the ladies as a standard toilet article, which none ought to be without, as the price places it within the reach of all, being per bottle, to be had at all respectable druggists and perfumers.

L. MILLER would call the attention of Parents and Guardians to the use of his Invigorator, in cases where the childrens' Hair inclines to be weak. The use of it lays the foundation for a good head of hair, as it removes any impurities that may have become connected with the scalp, the removal of which is necessary both for the health of the child, and the future appearance of its Hair.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the fac-simile, LOUIS MILLER being on the outer wrapper; also, L. MILLER'S HAIR INVIGORATOR, N. Y., blown in the glass.
